

TEES VALLEY

The Tees Valley Wildlife Trust has recently appointed a Growing Food for the Future Officer, this a fantastic opportunity for schools in the Tees Valley to get involved with what we are doing. If you already have a growing area or have even just a few pots for some herbs, or would like to set one up, we would like to get involved, our project is lottery funded and has a small budget to help schools set up areas in the school grounds.

We aim is to involve pupils of all ages, along with the local community. This could be a parent, guardian or a local allotment member. We will help to source this key member, so that once this project has finished your school can be sustainable and keep “growing”.

We are looking to set up new lunch time or after school clubs, you will get full support for a period of time and after support once the project has finished. This support may be via websites, gaining extra funding or extra one off visits. We will also spend some time to guide and help the schools designated teacher/ assistant, parent or guardian in the topic of growing your own food.

For extra information please don't hesitate to contact us on the below address, or send us an e-mail.
